Death Claims

Mrs. E. H. Freeze

The sudden death of Mrs. E. H. Freeze, which occurred at her home on Sunday morning, August 20th, has caused widespread regret among the many friends she has made in this community. Deceased had been around Saturday in apparently her usual health and a few hours before her demise had carried on a conversation with Dr. Freeze. At 9 o'clock Sunday morning she passed away from heart failure in her 49th year.

Maud Evans Freeze was born in Malrose, Montana and received her education at the Oberling University in Ohio. In 1909 she married Dr. E. H. Freeze in Missoula, Montana, coming to Calgary in 1911 with her husband who went over as Captain with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces in 1917. They located in Champion in 1919.

During her long residence here Mrs. Freeze had taken a keen interest in all local organizations, including the Royal Purple, of which order she was the first Honored Royal Lady and was secretary at the time of her death. The members of these organizations feel in her death a personal loss.

She is survived by her husband Edward H. Freeze; three sisters, Mrs. Morrison of San Francisco, Mrs. James Mills of Los Angeles, Miss Jane Evans of Pasadena, California; and one brother, Van Evans of Malrose, Montana.

Shavers Funeral Establishment were in charge of the funeral arrangements. Dr. Freeze accompanied the remains to Dillon, Montana where the interment was made on Wednesday in the family plot.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Dr. Freeze in his bereavement.

Obituary

The death of Mrs. Harry Higgins, which occurred at her home on Friday evening, August 18, in her 50th year, caused general regret throughout the community. Although she had been ill for some time, no immediately fatal consequences were looked for.

Elizabeth Maud Chapin was born in Listowel, Ontario. In 1912 she came to Alberta and was married to Mr. H. G. Higgins. During her twenty-one years residence here she had taken an active interest in many movements intended for the welfare of the community and was an active member of the Blusson United Church.

Mrs. Higgins was a Charter member of the Royal Purple lodge and an active member of the Amity Club. The zeal and ability with which she performed the duties of every office entrusted to her endeared her to the membership of these orders.

In her immediate family she is survived by a loving husband Harry G. Higgins; two daughters, Rheta, Mrs. C. Van der Mill; Miss Helen at home; one son Gordon at home; her mother, Mrs. Chapin, three sisters and one brother. To the bereft family the community extends its loving heartfelt sympathy.

The funeral service was held in the Community Hall on Sunday, August 20. The sermon preached by Rev. P. Dawson was most impressive. The Royal Purple assisted in the ceremony. The large attendance and beautiful flowers formed a speaking tribute to the popularity of the deceased.

Card of Thanks

We wish to convey our deepest appreciation and thanks to the neighbors and friends who so kindly came to our assistance during the illness of Mrs. Higgins, and during our recent bereavement. Also for the many beautiful floral offerings. Mr. H. Higgins and family

England Has Five Flags

Any One of Which Denotes British Nationality

Exponents of a national flag for Canada may find some comfort in the suggestion that the United Kingdom itself has none.

An inquiry in the London Times asking what flag an Englishman might "legally and appropriately" fly from the staff on his house, brought this terse rejoinder from Lord Glasgow, former captain in the Royal Navy:

"None, for we have neither national flag nor colors."

In the many attempts to refute this statement it was brought out in the columns of the Times that there are at least five flags which denote British nationality, but each one, particularly the Union Jack, is so hemmed in with restrictions that, according to one writer, "the ordinary man is apparently not entitled to fly a flag at all on his own house."

"It entirely agrees with Lord Glasgow," this correspondent added, "that the Union Jack is not a proper flag for any British subject to fly on shore. It is an official badge. It cannot be flown at sea except by the Royal Navy, and on shore it can only be flown by lord-lieutenants, the Houses of Parliament, or on castles, or remains of castles formerly used for defensive purposes."

"The White Ensign can, at sea, of course, only be flown by the Royal Navy and the Royal Yacht Squadron. On shore, I believe, naval officers claim it on their own houses, but to my astonishment, an admiral told me the other day that anyone could fly it on shore."

"The Red Ensign, a sea flag, denotes British nationality afloat. But being a sea flag, it should surely not be flown ashore."

"The Blue Ensign (official transport) has also its definite use afloat and also forms the flag (as does the Red Ensign) of various naval corps flags. But it is not a land flag."

"The Royal Standard is, of course, the purely personal flag of the sovereign."

"Finally we come to the St. George's Cross (red cross on white ground). I maintain that it is not, or should not be, confined to the use of admirals alone—except with a number of red discs upon it. But St. George, being a purely English saint (though I believe he was originally a Cappadocian), should, or would, be a Scotsman, or a Welshman (my liege). A man is undoubtedly entitled to fly his own banner over his own house; but very few people have their own banners, and there is a tendency if he is not entitled to coat of arms."

Seeking Lost Islands

Location Unknown For Years But Search Is Continued

Search that has been going on for almost 30 years for five islands in the Bay of Panama, which were lost with new vigor by Mrs. Marie Plise, owner of the islands under the will of her husband, she has announced.

Her husband, William H. Plise, a piano teacher and prominent character in San Francisco before the fire of 1906, inherited the islands from an ancestor who had obtained them by grant from a Spanish king, according to Archie Trest, Mrs. Plise's attorney. For years Plise endeavored to colonize the islands. Later he tried to sell them. The map giving the location of the islands was destroyed in the 1906 fire. Plise died a year before the fire.

Since then Mrs. Plise has been trying to locate her estate. The state department interested itself in the search for years, but without success. The only hope, it was pointed out lies in ancient records of Spain.

WHEN THE BRITISH TEAM ARRIVED HOME WITH THE DAVIS CUP

London's usually calm exterior was badly ruffled when the British Davis Cup team arrived in Victoria Station with the coveted Davis Cup, emblematic of supremacy in the lawn tennis world. For twenty-one years the trophy has eluded the grasp of British players till this year when Austin, Perry, Hughes, Leo and Company confounded the so-called experts and defeated Australia, United States and France in the semi-final and final stages of the series. Here we see the excited team enjoying the tumultuous welcome which was handed out when they reached home. Left to right: H. W. "Bunny" Austin, H. Hoper Barrett, the non-playing captain, with the trophy, Fred J. Perry, G. P. Hughes and H. G. N. Lee.

Collecting Bird Specimens

Two Hundred and Fifty Birds Collected in Hudson Bay Area For Royal Ontario Museum

Bird specimens numbering 250, collected during the collection of birds between Churchill and Eskimo Point, are ready for shipment to the Royal Ontario Museum to be added to the collection of 10,000 used for research and ornithological studies. The collector, Arthur C. Twomey, of Edmonton, student of the University of Alberta, who undertakes this work as a private enterprise, has had many specimens accepted by the museum during the past five years. A selection will be made from the shipment when it arrives.

L. L. Snyder, ornithologist at the museum, says the collection of birds from the St. Lawrence is still small. The birds used for studies are kept in steel cupboards and placed in long trays, several numbers of a species together for comparison and examination for variation. The birds appear in natural form, but are, in fact, merely the skins with feet, beak and feathers intact. The skins are turned and stuffed with cotton to provide a body.

The birds from Hudson Bay will not be on exhibition, but share the extensive moth-proofed cupboards that already contain close to 20,000 birds.

Mr. Twomey will spend the remainder of the summer, it is learned, in collecting other specimens found in northern Alberta. He is one of several ornithologists and naturalists who make collections for the museum.

A Double Score

Smoker Had Fare Paid And Was Not Disturbed

A gentleman out Gayer Bay way always avoids the smoking car when he commutes—can't stand smoking himself, and doesn't like other people to smoke. He found a seat in a non-smoking, coach the other morning, but to his dismay a man came in and sat facing him and lighted up a cigar. Not wanting to make a scene, the other man waited till the conductor came around to punch his ticket. As he handed it to the conductor, he nudged him and nodded to the baggage agent. The conductor nodded back, took another punch out of the ticket, and went on.—The New Yorker.

Germany's New Electric Train

Claimed To Be Fastest Of Its Type In World

The German National Railways recently put through its trial run from Munich to Stuttgart an electric train which is claimed to be the fastest of its type in the world.

Over the 24-kilometer stretch which is covered in two hours, 20 minutes, the train averaged over 98 kilometers, or almost 64 miles per hour.

The greatest speed, 151.4 kilometers an hour, is the highest ever reached by an electric train, it is reported.

"The Flying Hamburger," a streamlined, Diesel-powered double unit operating between Berlin and Hamburg, makes much faster time but it is not to be classed with heavy trains such as the new Munich-Stuttgart express, which includes a locomotive and seven cars.

Railway Saving Time

Speeds Up Express Trains To Sixty Miles An Hour

The fastest railway service ever operated in the United Kingdom is that of the London and North-Eastern since July 17 this year.

There are 23 expresses with start-to-stop speeds of 69 miles an hour and over. All the companies speeded up various services on the date mentioned, and altogether 165 hours a day are being saved on journey time.

The world's longest non-stop train has been captured for Britain by the London and North-Eastern Flying Scotsman, which covers the 324 miles between King's Cross and Edinburgh in 7½ hours.

Buya Big Wireless Plant

John Simon, Halifax, has purchased the wireless plant and all the equipment which was erected by the Imperial government during the war. This plant which is situated about three miles from Barrington Passage, Nova Scotia, has two steel towers each three hundred and twenty feet high.

French railroads are operating at a deficit.

The Charm Of England

Traveler Prefers Privacy Of Little Island To Wide Open Spaces

The traveler returning to England after a voyage of discovery in America is instantly and overwhelmingly struck by the differences between this small, shut country and that unreasonably vast and open continent. This observation, which I have recently had occasion to make for myself, may be true; it is at any rate poignant. The absence of highways, fences, walls, the disregard for privacy; the consequent lack of intimacy; the absence of an old, mellow, and rich tradition; the absence, perhaps above all, of aged buildings, whether the lichened barn, the secret manorhouse, or the haphazard village—these things compel the English traveler to look upon his own island with a new and glad-eyed eye. How can the plains of Kansas compare with Romney Marsh, and who would exchange little South-east for all the allo flowers of Omaha? W. Sackville-West, in the Spectator, London.

Drought In South Africa

Lack Of Water Causes Great Suffering To Sheep

When sheep are dying by the score great lamentations are heard. But the lamentations are always for the owners. Scarcely a thought comes to be given to the suffering of the sheep. In Australia one sometimes reads of book-makers cutting the throats of their sheep in such circumstances in order to save them from the agony of a slow death. But if similar action has been taken in South Africa there has been a strange conspiracy to conceal it from the public.

As Easy As That

An applicant for relief at Brockville, Ont., has no qualms about taking money from the government for he believes they obtain it easily enough. In conversation with a relief official he said it was easy for authorities to feed so many people. "Why they just dig the gold out of the ground and make all the money they need," he explained.

Earth's Jacket Shrinking

Result Of Gradual Cooling Of Interior Say Scientists

New evidence that mother earth's 184 million square mile rock jacket is shrinking on like a cheap suit in a heavy rain was presented to the International Geological Congress at Washington.

Among remote-peaks of the Himalayas Mountains of North India, tall, steep mountains in the world and among the youngest, Dr. Helmut de Terra of Yale University has found what he believes are unmistakable signs of continuing shrinkage.

The shrinkage presumably is a result of the gradual cooling of the earth's interior. That has been progressing slowly since this planet originally was pulled off from the sun in the form of a hot gas ball. What is actually shrinking is the earth's inner shell of semi-fluid "magma" rock, which underlies both oceans and continents.

When the deep rock layer shrinks it is believed, the outer crust of hard, rigid rocks is crumpled and wrinkled like the skin of an apple when its inside dries up.

This what "wrinkled up" the mighty Himalayas, the Alps of Europe and other mountain ranges of the world. Dr. De Terra holds, "He finds evidence of it from a study of the Himalayas, made on a two-and-one-half-year expedition in that region."

The wrinkling up of the Himalayas and Alps began in an extinct ocean, the "Tethys Sea" that once separated the great land masses of the world, one to the south, the other to the north. When the magma rock shell shrunk, these two huge continents were moved nearer together, as two buttons on a coat when the coat shrinks.

Pinched between them, the bottom of the Tethys Sea was crushed into folds. Later it was raised above sea level and the rise continued. Folding and lifting operations have been going on in the Himalayas since then, as perhaps 1,000,000 years ago, only yesterday in geological time, they started more than 100,000 years ago, Dr. Terra estimates.

Travel At Great Speed

Peregrine Falcons Do About Forty Miles A Second

If you wish to see what a speed of 140 miles an hour really looks like you would see the peregrine falcons which appear about August 11 every year.

The peregrine travel about 40 miles an hour. They are among the fastest meters belonging to the solar system. If they flew any faster they would escape from the sun's gravitational grip and go wandering off into space, and so would be lost as an annual spectacle to earth.

The peregrine travel in an orbit so close to the sun that they circle the sun.

Too Many Specialists

Dr. Mayo Advises Students To Go Into General Practice

Declaring physicians should not forget the importance of "taking care of the sick," Dr. William C. Mayo, one of the founders of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., said he would advise the country's medical students to become general practitioners instead of specialists. "It is true," he said, "that there are too many young specialists, at least in my opinion. They come out of school and are recently 'specialists.'"

Why She's a She

The question of why a locomotive is called "she" has been referred to a railroad official. He replies:

"There are many reasons for this. For instance, she wears a jacket with a yoke, pins and shields. She has an apron and a lap. Not only does she have shoes, but she sports stockings and even hose while she drags trains behind her. She also attracts attention with puffs and mufflers, and sometimes she fawns and flirts with work. At such times she needs to be watched. She needs guiding and she requires a man to feed her, but most characteristic of all is that she is a much sturdier when she is hooked up."

Market For Soy Beans

U.S. Farmers Find They Are Good For Much More Than Food

Pulse Crop Soy beans, heretofore regarded by most farmers as good cattle and hog feed and as an excellent crop to raise in order to use his land as a rest, have entered the commercial field and give promise of being a new and profitable crop for the Midwest farmers.

Soy beans are being raised by their own and already a half dozen millers are developing various lines with the lowly beans as their base. The last three years has seen soy bean flour introduced into this country, but so little has been circulated that many farmers who have raised the beans in order to rest their land have merely "plowed under," not realizing that soy beans can be sold on the open market the same as wheat, oats and corn.

Chemists and dietitians have recently discovered what the Chinese and Indians in centuries have known for centuries that the soy bean contains food elements similar to those found in meat, milk, butter, eggs and sugar, all in one harmonious whole. They have also discovered that the bean contains no starch.

The chemists declare that a properly processed pound of soy beans flour, for example, the same protein as 2½ pounds of meat or 360 eggs or 14½ pints of milk.

It was pointed out, however, that flour made from soy beans must be manufactured for human consumption. It will not do for the valuable fats in the bean, but for your soy bean flour made after these fats have been removed is excellent feed for the farmer's stock.

Production of soy beans has been increasing steadily. In general the beans can be raised in any climate where wheat will raise corn. In the farm bureau, the soy bean crop many individual cases, reported by a farmer was the only one which the farmer could easily turn into cash.

Many farmers sold their last year's crop at a loss of 20 to 25 cents a bushel in order to obtain the much needed cash. Most of the beans are bought by large manufacturers of cattle feed. The beans are sold for from a dollar to a dollar twenty a bushel.

Last Year Crop Returns

Western Farmers Received Over $130,000,000 For 1932-33 Season

Wheat growers of western Canada in the crop year just ended got a better return for their product than the season 1931-32. Return to farmers in the 1932-33 season, ended July 31st, was $132,087,721.

This sum, representing the amount paid the farmer at country elevators, was considerably above that for the year previous, $115,085,861.

Those farmers in Manitoba received for their labors in the season just ended $19,305,141, marketing 50,681,000 bushels. The Saskatchewan farmers returned from 147,985,000 bushels was $19,112,213. Alberta, home of wheat champions, marketed 174,625,000 bushels and received $53,610,937 in return.

Total marketed in the west last season was 372,001,000 bushels.

Canada's Arctic Islands

About half of Canada's Eskimo population is in the Eastern Arctic and over 1,000 of these natives are on Baffin Island. At all the Baffin Island posts, therefore, there are trading stations, but the islands further north have scarcely any permanent native population and the posts there are purely for Government administrative purposes and are manned by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. From these posts extensive patrols are conducted. The Government posts in the Eastern Arctic are visited annually by steamship by an expedition sent out by the Department of the Interior.

Swift Current Weather Station

A new instrument to record the velocity and direction of the wind was installed at the Swift Current weather station by the Department of the Dominion meteorological service. The instrument, which replaces an old one, is called an "anemometer." It is said to be the latest development in wind gauging. It was exhibited at the World's Grain Show, Regina.

FANCIFUL FABLES

Tests Are Being Made In Extensive Program To Improve Quality Of Western Wheat

Details of an extensive program to improve western wheat crops and thereby raise the premium which Canada obtains on world markets for her grain were revealed by Dr. L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist from Ottawa, who is carrying out tests of the wheat with Major H. G. L. Strang, former wheat king of the world.

Description of the extensive scheme was given by Dr. Newman in this manner: "We are endeavoring," he said, "to obtain a picture of the varieties of wheat being grown across the northern farm belt to learn where the grain is fairly pure and where it is badly mixed. Now that we are looking this picture we are trying to improve the seed used by the farmers."

"Last fall," the cerealist explained, "samples of grain were collected from 6,100 farm wagons at country elevator points and this year grain has been grown from this seed. We established 16 group points with about 400 small plots at each. Now we are going over grain samples at each place. Field days, too, are being held simultaneously with the identification of the varieties."

"In some cases, the farmers did not even know the names of the varieties of wheat they were growing. The farmers, at the time the samples were taken last fall, were asked to give the name of the variety they thought they had. This was noted by the elevator man concerned and the grain was graded. Now we are classifying the resulting grain under these three heads: Good, which is fairly pure seed which can be used, passable, suitable seed for sowing, and with for a while, and undesirable made up of a number of varieties which should not be used for seed."

Defies Superstition

S.S. Penworthrop Takes No Notice Of Ill Omen

In setting a record passage of three days through Hudson Strait and Bay, the S.S. Penworthrop defied all the ill omens of the sea and defeated three ships in the race to be first vessel into the new Canadian port this season. First of all her triumphant docking was accomplished Sunday, the 13th.

She sailed from both Glasgow and Antwerp on Friday, and made her landfall at Resolution Island 13 days after clearing from Antwerp. She's picked up her pilot at Churchill Sunday at 11 hours 15 minutes. She's in, 15 days after leaving the British Isles at Pentland Firth, and so became the 13th ship to reach Churchill from Europe since the port was established two years ago.

When the ship's log was hailed in outside Churchill harbor, it registered exactly 11 miles, and the water end showed a draft of exactly 13 feet when the ship was moored at the dock.

And then Captain Giffon remembered he celebrates his birthday on the 13th.

Quite An Occasion

Royalty Used To Take Ocean Dip With Great Ceremony

It is not to hear of George the Third's bathing machine, with its royal arms, fulfilling the function of a tooth-ache; Weymouth should have a better memory than that. It might remember that day when Panny Burney speaks of, when his majesty stepped down to the briny to the strains of the National Anthem in a neighboring machine. It took the art of bathing a long time to shake off the ceremonial touch. When the Duchess de Berri visited her bathing cabin on the beach at Dieppe, she was received with a salvo of artillery, after which "the Inspector de Bains, clad in a regiment uniform, cocked hat, and white gloves, led her royal highness into the sea until the water reached his knee when he retired with three profound obeisances."—London Observer.

May Refine U.S. Gold Ore

Plan To Ship U.S. Gold Ore To Canada For Smelting

The bulk of the United States' annual production of gold ore and concentrates approximating 40,000,000 may soon be smelted and refined in Canada. From large and small gold mine outputs are scattered parts of the U.S. Republic, permission has been asked from the Dominion Government to ship their ore and concentrates into this country. Representatives of gold mines in Alaska have asked for similar permission.

While the requests are now before the Department of Finance, decision will have to be made by cabinet council. A very reasonable likelihood, it is intimated, exists of the applications being granted.

Under the proposal, the United States mine interests would be able to receive world market prices for their gold in place of the fixed American mint price of $20.67 per ounce. The average price in Canada of late has been running about $29.50 per ounce.

Canadian smelters in northern Ontario, and at Trail, B.C., would melt the U.S. and Alaska gold ore and concentrates, it was stated, if the proposal is achieved. The process of refining into pure gold would be performed at the Royal Mint at Ottawa.

If the requests are granted, regulations of the Canadian mint which provide for retaining in that institution of Canadian-mined gold, of necessity will be broadened.

The way to ship gold concentrates and "unsmelted ore" out of the United States was cleared in Washington recently when gold export prohibitions were amended by the treasury department to permit the metal being sent out of the republic in those forms. Unrefined amalgam and cyanide precipitates also are allowed to be shipped out after the Washington ruling.

Canada's embargo of October, 1931, against the shipment of gold from Canada is still effective. This decree prohibits shipping gold out of this country except under license. Since that date, the Dominion has been paying a premium on gold to Canadian mine owners who are receiving world prevailing prices.

With few exceptions, the Dominion Government has been the only shipper of gold from Canada since October, 1931. In the instances where permission has been granted by the department of finance to export gold, the licenses, it is stated, have been given to the miner, and not to a special refining treatment and the gold in its final refined state was re-shipped into Canada.

The question has been raised that United States gold coins might be converted into Canadian currency, producing a profit by the process through recovery into U.S. funds. Official enquiry elicits the statement that conversion of U.S. gold coins into Canadian currency would be to be done in the final act through the Royal mint, and such conversion is prohibited. No United States gold, it is declared, has been purchased by the Dominion Government in Canada during the past 20 months.

Predicts Troubleless Race

Dr. Hugh MacMillan, of Cincinnati, predicted human tests are destined to become useless appendages—in 100,000,000 years or so. In a semi-annual report he told delegates to the centennial dental congress at Chicago, concentrated pre-digested foods in the distant future would make teeth unnecessary.

Occasional Wife

BY EDNA ROBB WESTER
"LIPSICER ONE" J. J. J.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt, young and beautiful student in an art school, unconsciously sketches the range of emotions that stir during the class and when she is supposed to be drawing a "Greek urn." The professor, looking at her sketch, embraces Camilla by having Peter Anson, the boy whose head she sketched, criticize her work before the class. Afterwards Camilla goes to the park outside to cry. Camilla's friends, after taking her home, Peter resolves not to take Camilla out again, because of the expense. He is only a struggling artist. Camilla wonders why he did not ask her to go out again.

[Now Go On With the Story]

CHAPTER V.

Peter let himself into the ugly room which he shared with Gus Matson. He despised the black and white paper and clumsy furnishings, but his artistic and imaginative eye looked beyond it to the beautiful studio suite that he would occupy some day and endured it. Gus' hands were covered with gray modeling clay. There was a solid red suede jacket—Peter's—and a smoking pipe.

"This is a swell hour for you to be checkin' in," he reproached Peter. "Out with some skirt!"

"A girl," Peter corrected, hanging up his hat and coat.

"Another high-bad dame, I suppose," said Peter didn't invite me to the party. If you'd take my advice popular everyone who was an outsider—only Peter's friend, which tendered him a certain advantage.

"Come on, plenty, too, I'll bet," Gus continued his reproach.

"Too much," Peter conceded. "But it was worth it."

"Is she going to finance you for a couple of years in Paris?"

"No—oh, no—I only meant that being with her tonight was worth the money it cost me."

Gus snorted. "If you don't watch your step, you'll be failing for some time and lose your balance completely. Well, c'mon, it's time we hit the hay."

"You insist on waiting up for me, don't you, mama?" Peter grimaced with good humor. "I appreciate your concern, but really I'm a big boy now and can take myself in."

"That's what you think. But you know I can't sleep while you're prowling around, and you might be considered enough like a tough guy at a decent hour once in awhile."

Quarrelling with Gus was worse than arguing with a woman, because he not only had the last word, but he never sought a reconciliation later. Peter kept his silence. He was determined to see Gus through the year.

Next month would be the end. He had offered to help him early in the year and had taken him in on the sympathy when he got down with pneumonia and almost developed tuberculosis, due partly to undernourishment. Gus was hanging on to finish Niall, with a tremendous grip on Peter; then he would show the world something, he boasted.

"A girl," Peter corrected, hanging up his hat and coat.

ever she resolved to do a thing, she did it completely. Her latest resolution was to show Peter that she had completely forgotten him and was devoting herself to her work.

So when Professor Drake exhibited her work to the class, she was the best of the day, her triumph was sweet. The moment class was dismissed, she hurried away without a backward glance.

Professor Drake smiled at Peter. "What's the matter, Anson? Not keeping late hours, I hope?"

"No, sir," sobriety. "My of day, I guess."

"Well, you can't afford to have many of those if you maintain your record. By the way, you are planning to compete for the Paris scholarship award in the fall, aren't you?"

"I planned to, but—"

"There can be no exception to the plan. I expect you to have an entry in the exhibit."

"I'll try for it."

"Something is wrong, Anson. Is there anything I can do?"

Peter's head up to defiance. "Thank you, sir, No, there's nothing you can do. I'll manage somehow."

"Then if I can be of any assistance in advising you about the exhibit, let me know."

"Thanks. I'll do that," Peter escaped his quizzical inspection and swung through the entrance of the building into the path which cut through the park toward the museum.

He usually took the shorter way, and it was on one of the benches near the lilac hedge that he had found Camilla several days before. She, not knowing that he passed that way often, had gone there directly from class, to be alone and think what to do about Peter.

He found her there again. She was not crying this time, but even before she saw him, he knew by the forlorn little picture she made, that she was afflicted with the black-blue again.

Why a girl like Camilla should have any kind of blues was beyond his imagination. She hid the world in her eyes. Perhaps that was why she didn't know what real trouble was, so the least difficulty assumed exaggerated proportions for her.

His step on the path started her. "Oh!" she exclaimed and flushed.

He had been startled, too, seeing her there where they had first talked together, but had had a moment of calm his violent reactions before she discovered him.

He smiled ruefully. "Is this a favorite rendezvous of yours?"

"This is a public park, isn't it?" she retorted with a calmness that belied the furious beating of her heart, which his sudden appearance had disturbed. Always she felt as if she must resist anything Peter Anson said to her, at the same time that she wanted so much for him to talk to her. And wondered why she could resist him so much when she loved him so.

"Why-of course?" she alone was puzzled at the defense in her voice. Her eyes were fixed on him, as if she were at the school to the museum. And because I like to walk here, especially now when the lilacs are in bloom.

"That is why I like to come here, too," her voice was softer and she looked up at him with a smile. (To be continued.)

Sheep in Long Trek

After passing through country generally considered impassable, Drove Jack Brady and eight helpers have just completed a drive of 7,500 sheep for 1,300 miles from Mackenzie to the coast of Australia.

To water the animals in desert spots a pumping plant and troughing was carried. The trip required 200 mules and a night guard against raids by wild dogs was necessary. Only 300 sheep died on the trip.

Advance in Wireless

Communication With Micro Waves Being Developed

Communication with micro waves a foot and a half long over distances greater than the range of visible light through or around physical obstacles was reported before the science department of the Royal Academy by Guglielmo Marconi, noted wireless inventor of Italy.

Engineers had believed such opaque objects as buildings, mountains, etc., had the same effect on these waves as would be in the case with a searchlight or other form of light beam.

In a series of tests conducted between the inventor's yacht "Eleftra" in the Tyrrhenian sea, and inland Italy, Marconi said that both radio-phones and radiotelegraph messages had been exchanged with the experimental station in Santa Margherita, 30 miles landward, a distance three times further than he had been able to get heretofore.

Even when the "Eleftra" anchored at Porto Santo Stefano, a distance of 181 miles from Santa Margherita, direct messages on a 60-centimeter wave were picked up by the yacht despite two intervening mountainous promontories, indicating that the waves were not hindered by opaque objects.

Twenty-five watts of power were used, Marconi said, in a newly developed microwave coiled transmitter and receiver. He added that he hoped through the development of more sensitive apparatus to be able to bring about further important advancements in the art of radio communication.

"I'll try for it."

"Something is wrong, Anson. Is there anything I can do?"

Peter's head up to defiance. "Thank you, sir, No, there's nothing you can do. I'll manage somehow."

Pure White Swallows

Strange Albino Birds Found in Quebec Valley

Reports that a nest of pure white swallows has been discovered in a near Danville, Que., has aroused considerable interest among ornithologists in Montreal.

Mrs. John R. Wilson, of Danville, who made the discovery, declares that the nest of pure white swallows has been raised by ordinary barn swallows.

"There are three fully grown birds now," she says.

M. Mousley, bird expert at McGill University, points out that while white swallows are not unknown, it is phenomenal that the entire brood of two swallows apparently normal should be albino.

"The finding of a nest of white swallows," he said, "is extremely important in research work on ornithology and genetics. I intend to follow up the matter immediately."

If it is true that the entire brood are pure albinos and that the parent birds are normally pigmented, the finding, it is pointed out, will cause heated discussion among savants in the field of heredity, for such a discovery seemingly transgresses the known laws of heredity. The natural condition would be to find the brood mixed, some showing signs of albinism and others being normal.

If it is true that the entire brood are pure albinos and that the parent birds are normally pigmented, the finding, it is pointed out, will cause heated discussion among savants in the field of heredity, for such a discovery seemingly transgresses the known laws of heredity. The natural condition would be to find the brood mixed, some showing signs of albinism and others being normal.

Musolini Never Flinches

Even his Dentist Cannot Get Him To Admit Pain

It Duces never flinches—not even in a dentist's chair.

"Questo ai ditta soffrire un poco," says his dentist, like most of his profession when about to embark on some delicate explorations of the orifice.

And Mussolini's answer to his nothing remark, "non m'annata m'annata." "This is going to hurt a little," invariably is:

"Non temo il dolore (I do not fear pain)."

Dr. Arrigo Perno, of Rome, the man who for eight years has been the Italian dictator's private dentist, told how his patient, who has come through the trials that make some strong men quail and whimper.

In Chicago to attend the Continental Dentist Congress, Dr. Perno said it Duces fears neither the snarl of the drill, or its descent into recesses of the tooth.

Assured by his patient that he has no fear of pain, he has born down pretty hard at times, said Dr. Perno. He hasn't been able to get a sound out of Mussolini in eight years.

Not a Certainty

Nazi Regime Will Go The Way Of All Such Movements

Chancellor Hitler says that the Nazi regime will endure forever. The interesting thing about that is not that it is wrong but that he thinks he is right. After five or six thousand years of recorded history the average man and woman know that nothing, in this world at least, can endure forever, or even for any really long time. But men such as Hitler express need the kind of his morose fanaticism he enunciates to keep them going even the little while that they may endure.—New York Evening Post.

Used New Type Ballon

In a new type ballon, Dr. Max Cosyns, who was with Professor Picard last summer in his ascent into the stratosphere, and Ernest Deputier, a noted Belgian aeronaut, have made several trips lasting 24 hours or more. Most of their trips have been over Belgium and France. Their craft is equipped with devices to permit it to rise or descend at will or remain stationary. Dr. Cosyns plans to make a trip into the stratosphere.

Italy's wheat crop this year is expected to total 6,500,000 tons.

Tells Time By Lights

Huge Clock in Paris Has Not Regulation Face and Works

Parisians are seldom concerned over the time of day. There is inherent in the French temperament to great a capacity for enjoying fully the present moment to permit any particular preoccupation with the passage of the hours. Engrossed in the pastime of appreciating culinary delights, for instance, the Parisian would probably be inclined to resent having a "Big Ben" clock to remind him that he has been at the luncheon table two hours already. The absence hitherto of any outstanding timepiece in Paris is probably explained by some such scruples, and at the same time explains the exceptional great interest taken in the debut here of what is authoritatively described as "the biggest clock in the world."

Certainly it is one of the "tallest," for it is placed about one-third of the way up the Eiffel Tower, at the height of 216 feet, and it measures 65 feet in diameter. Besides its unusual dimensions, however, the French version of "Big Ben" has other claims to distinction. For although it is visible from almost any point in Paris, it has no face, no hands and no works—at least not in the usual sense of the terms. The answer is that the new clock is a luminous one. The hours, from one to twelve, are simply great colored lights, or reflectors. The "hands" are lines of electric light bulbs, which burn for a minute, then go out, and the line further on is then illuminated to burn in its succession for one minute. The hour "hand" operates in the same way, but of course more slowly. The "movement" is regulated by a synchronized electric motor.—Christian Science Monitor.

Historic Sites

Movement For Preservation Of Places Of National Interest Started In 1919

The movement for the preservation of national historic sites in Canada dates back to the year 1919. Representations were made to the then Dominion government urging the necessity of a national organization for the preservation of historic sites and as a result an honorary Historic Sites and Monuments Board was created. This board is composed of a number of eminent Canadian historians who have given their services without compensation. The recommendations of the board are made to the Department of the Interior, which through its national parks branch takes the necessary action.

Plans call for departure of the expedition from New Zealand in November.

Parisians can now read the time by a clock on the Eiffel tower, the illuminating at night lighting up a dial 61 feet in circumference.

YOU'LL BE NEEDING SOMETHING SMART FOR TOWN! HERE'S YOUR MODEL

It's a youthful affair rather suggestive of military styling.

Especially those who might consider it a glendora that will find this model exceedingly attractive.

While a slate-blue skirt, softly creased silk inspired the original model, a red and white patterned crepe, a dark blue and white polka-dot crepe or grey crepe skirt are other good schemes.

The crepe is removable.

The pattern provides for long or for short sleeves.

Style No. 740 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52, 54, 56, 58, 60, 62, 64, 66, 68, 70, 72, 74, 76, 78, 80, 82, 84, 86, 88, 90, 92, 94, ## WHEAT QUOTA PLAN TO CUT DOWN SURPLUS

Winnipeg, Man.—Canada and the United States are following different paths in their effort to cut down the world's wheat surplus, according to J. T. Hull, Canadian wheat pool statesman.

The Canadian wheat pools advocate a quota system while in the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace is putting into operation an acreage reduction scheme, said Mr. Hull. In the Dominion, he explained, it was proposed to establish a quota, limiting the deliveries by each individual farmer to his country elevator.

The quota would be based on the farmer's average deliveries over a period of years.

"The plan in Canada, whether acreage reduction or not, and how much would be left to the individual farmer but he could not sell more than the quota allotted him," said Mr. Hull.

The Canadian system, he claimed, had several advantages. It did away with the need for compensation, which was provided for in the U.S., by a processing tax. It gave the farmer more latitude, the statesman declared. If weather proved adverse, he was protected. He could use any surplus for feed, or store it.

Small Wheat Imports

Little Prospect Of Expanding Wheat Trade With France

Ottawa, Ontario.—Arsene Henry, French minister to Canada, who has just returned from a vacation abroad, sees very little prospect of France expanding her purchases of Canadian wheat. At the same time, the minister thought the recently-published Franco-Canadian trade treaty had been practically neutralized by the disparity in exchange between Canadian and French currency.

"France imports very little wheat," the minister said, "and is able, in fact, to supply her own needs. When you see reports to the effect that the French Government insists upon French bakers using 98 or 99 per cent French wheat, you must assume that this is directed against Canadian wheat, for as a matter of fact the variety which Canada exports is not the same type of wheat used in the making of French bread."

France produces and uses soft wheat, while you export the hard variety."

The minister thought the exchange rates militated against France securing any increased volume of trade with Canada, although these operated to Canada's advantage and might result in an upswing of Canadian exports to the republic.

Tax Revenues Increase

Figures For July Higher Than Corresponding Month Last Year

Ottawa, Ont.—For the first month since the beginning of the current fiscal year Canada's revenue from taxation in July showed an increase over collections for the corresponding month last year. The national exchequer came out at $1,642,920, for the four months, however, the revenue was down by $9,153,457.

The improvement was due to excise taxes which last month totaled $889,136, as against $730,966 for July 1922, or a betterment of $158,170. This gain was partly offset by a drop of $406,900 in excise duties, $275,747 in customs duties, and $202,902 in sundry collections. However, with the declines balanced against the gains, revenues were still on the right side.

JAMAICA FLOODS CAUSE HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE

Kingston, Jamaica.—Seventy persons were drowned in floods which struck this city and the parishes of St. Thomas, St. Catherine and St. Mary, following a storm accompanied by lightning and high winds.

The damage was estimated at approximately $2,000,000 as bridges and buildings were swept away and banana plantations leveled. One hundred houses were abandoned as they were damaged so badly.

The government established relief stations to care for the homeless. The storm, which lasted six hours, was described as the worst in 80 years. The water rose as high as six feet in the streets, and rushed through dwellings, washing away many occupants trapped within. Two children were swept away from their mothers' arms by the floods and drowned.

The weather had improved later but the suburbs and the city were strewn with wreckage. Many houses were struck by lightning and railway and telephone services were disrupted.

Known deaths were confined chiefly among the poorer residents, trapped in the low-lying district adjoining the rivers. In the rural sections of Jamaica, communication lines were down, and it was impossible to estimate the extent of the damage.

Recompense Farmers

Millions Of Dollars To Be Paid To United States Growers

Washington.—Millions of dollars in benefit payments to cotton and wheat farmers for agreements to curtail their production will be freed under a policy made public by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., governor of the farm credit administration, after approval by President Roosevelt.

Under it, payments will be made to cotton farmers, who agreed to plow up 25 to 30 per cent of their growing crops, without requiring deductions for amounts they owe the government for seed and crop production loans.

Morgenthau said a similar policy will be pursued in the case of payments to be made this fall to wheat farmers for agreements to reduce their acreages planted for harvest in 1924 and 1925.

About $80,000,000 is scheduled for distribution to wheat farmers and $10,000,000 to cotton farmers.

Where a farm credit administration has a claim against the farmer, the benefit check will be made out jointly to the farmer and the administration.

U.S. Recovery Plan

Entire U.S. Is Watching Results With Interest

Washington.—Prime Minister G. W. Forbes, of New Zealand, a visitor in Washington, says in a statement that in his opinion not only the United States but the entire world is watching the results of the "vital stake in the success of President Roosevelt's recovery plan."

"New Zealand is following the course of business recovery plans in the United States with the keenest possible interest, and with every hope that they will be fully successful."

The statement was made in reply to queries regarding the suit against the railways reported to have been threatened by Senator Murdoch, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. "We would not, of course, allow deductions from wages of employees, if we believed them to be illegal," the railways statement said.

Processing Taxes On Wheat and Cotton Is Plan

Washington.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told newspapermen there was a prospect of additional processing taxes on wheat and cotton if the price of the products continued to fall.

The processing tax is a levy paid by the manufacturer or processor of wheat and cotton, which in turn goes to the farmer in benefit payments for his agreement to cut production.

In the case of wheat, the present tax is 30 cents a bushel and on cotton it is 42 cents a lint pound. The effort will be made, they said, because of a large surplus of grain and cotton in the world.

RAILWAY WAGE SUIT MAY BE STARTED IN WEST

Ottawa, Ont.—Legal action to recover monies deducted by Canadian railway companies from employees since February 1 is probably will be initiated in one of the western provinces. This indication was given by Senator James Murdoch, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, in an intimation that suit would not be started in Ontario or Quebec. Indeed, he decided, however, says yet to be made.

The contention of the men is that basic wages were automatically restored by the expiry on January 31, last, of the February 1922, agreement for a 10 per cent cut for a year. Notwithstanding this fact, the employees claim that the company continued the 15 per cent deduction three months beyond the expiry period and after the railways put into effect an additional 10 per cent deduction from the basic rates.

Montreal, Quebec.—There is no question in the minds of railway officials with regard to the illegality of the wage deductions that the railways have been compelled to make a payment of precisely conditions.

The statement was made in reply to queries regarding the suit against the railways reported to have been threatened by Senator Murdoch, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. "We would not, of course, allow deductions from wages of employees, if we believed them to be illegal," the railways statement said.

To Aid U.S. Farmer

Washington.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told newspapermen there was a prospect of additional processing taxes on wheat and cotton if the price of the products continued to fall.

The processing tax is a levy paid by the manufacturer or processor of wheat and cotton, which in turn goes to the farmer in benefit payments for his agreement to cut production.

In the case of wheat, the present tax is 30 cents a bushel and on cotton it is 42 cents a lint pound. The effort will be made, they said, because of a large surplus of grain and cotton in the world.
